1. (AESIDECAR-2) finally contacted the Station by telephone on 23 October 1968, and a brief meeting was held with him in a coffee shop. (AESIDECAR-2) reported that [] had in fact come to the Olympics as one of the several hundred "tourists" from his country. All of the "tourists" were privileged souls of one sort or another: party and local government officials and other important persons in the country's sports and business hierarchy. The group [] was staying with was composed largely of trusted party types, and for this reason it was not easy for AESIDECAR-2 to get together with [] They eventually did have time to converse, however, and they planned to spend the afternoon of Sunday, 27 October, together, when they could have a long private conversation. AESIDECAR-2 had been acting under our previous instructions, which were not to ask [] any questions about his past WOFIRM contacts or current intentions with respect to WOFIRM, but merely to make mental note of any remarks [] might make. Up to 23 October, [] had mentioned only in passing that he had been contacted by AESIDECAR-2's "friends" some time ago in Los Angeles and had had several conversations with them. However, it did not appear to him as if these people were really serious,

so he never did anything and has never had any further contact. At this point it was impossible to tell if [] was fishing for a renewal of contact, but AESIDECAR-2 assumed that they would discuss the matter in greater detail in the course of their Sunday afternoon together. The only other item of interest mentioned by [] was that he was now coaching for Identity A. Ox 2. A second meeting was held with AESIDECAR-2 on 28 October to debrief him on the results of his afternoon with [] scheduled for the previous day. Unfortunately (or perhaps fortunately) the outing was spoiled by the presence of Identity B, who refused to detach herself from the group and stayed with them all afternoon and evening as "interpreter." She simply invited herself along and AESIDECAR-2 was furious. Also in the group were several other "tourists." They attended the closing ceremonies together and then went to a local restaurant. Largely as a result of Identity B's presence, AESIDECAR-2 was unable to get in any private conversation with [] and his group of tourists were due to leave on 28 October, so AESIDECAR-2 was unable to see him again. Ox 3. This is presumably the end of the [] story. If AESIDECAR-2 hears from him again, he will undoubtedly contact the Station, but taking [] brief statement at face value it is possible to conclude that WOFIRM will hear no more of [] and that no [] provocation was involved.
